Compact Celebration and Community Easter Party

by Val Niehaus

A large crowd attended and enjoyed two celebrations that took place on April 15, 2022, at the Potawatomi Community Center.

The first event was the Compact Extension Celebration that began with a welcome song from Fire Nation. This was a celebration to commemorate the signing of an agreement between the state of Wisconsin and the Forest County Potawatomi (FCP) tribe. The compact will give the tribe another 60 years of gaming and allows them to have sports betting in their casinos. A quote that sums it up well is, "Providing economic certainty for our Tribe and our future generations."

Chairman Ned Daniels Jr. then took the podium welcoming everyone and expressing how happy he was to see everybody. He went on to say, "Under this new agreement, we now have a compact in place until 2091. This agreement will allow the Tribe to continue to make strong investments that benefit our people while also helping our future generations. It really is a remarkable thing for our Tribe. We had to put in a lot of work to get this agreement. These agreements are complex and can take a long time to negotiate — sometimes many years. But we did it, and we were able to do it because you have put your trust and faith in the Executive Council to make the right decisions to help achieve goals like this. I say 'Migwétth' to all of you for standing with the Tribe and your Executive Council."

Chairman Daniels then called on Council Member Destinee Alloway to share a few short words with her saying, "I was happy to take part in making history. I also would like to thank everyone who took part in making this happen. I think it's important as well to acknowledge our past Council Member Nikolas Shepard because he has also taken part in this planning as well."

Chairman then introduced and invited FCP Attorney General Jeff Crawford to the podium to give more of the information about how the tribe started their compacts and maintained them to this day. Crawford presented a slide show to outline the progress through all the legal hardships necessary in maintaining these compacts and to show how successful the tribe has been in getting this new compact amendment in place to this day.

Next to say a few words was FCP Secretary James A. Crawford, "This has been a journey, and this is very big for us! We prepared the way for the next generation, and they have until 2091. Congratulations to the tribe as this is for all of us and the future."

After the Chairman finished his presentation and introductions, he then said a prayer for the food everyone was ready to enjoy, and the community Easter party celebration began!

This community event for the children is always anticipated with excitement and as usual, the planners did not disappoint — it was a great time. The party lasted for the next several hours with all the children smiling and having fun. As with other events, having this annual gathering in the new Community Center with all of the room available was perfect. The games were held in the turf room while the raffles and food were held in the commons area. There were photos with the Easter bunny, Easter gifts and baskets, a bike raffle, along with games, and the all too famous egg smash! On a fun note, it should be remembered that it was Community Center Director Brian Tupper who started the egg smash game a number of years ago — a greatly anticipated part of the Easter event. Tupper finally, after 24 years of working here for the tribe, got to take part in the fun. But to everyone's surprise, he also pranked everyone by smashing the two eggs he had on his fellow co-workers. Thanks, Brian, for the laugh!

OUR STORY -
BEDRÉ FINE CHOCOLATE
A NATIVE AMERICAN-OWNED BUSINESS

The story of Bedré Fine Chocolate began over four decades ago as a small chocolatier operating near Ada, Oklahoma. Bedré Fine Chocolate was determined to make the highest quality chocolate. This attitude is exemplified by the name Bedré itself, which is a Norwegian word that simply means "better." In 2000, the Chickasaw Nation purchased the company and turned it into a nationally-recognized luxury chocolate brand, setting the standard for premium quality chocolate.

Bedré Fine Chocolate's recipes reflect the time-honored tradition of the Native American peoples who first cultivated this divine delicacy. Now, as the only Native American tribe to create its own brand of fine chocolate, they take great pride in their products and instill their cultural passion into every delicious morsel. Given their strong ties to their culture and community, they give back to the land and people who support them.

Bedré Fine Chocolate enjoys contributing to educational, health and wellness programs and also supports the endeavors of a number of philanthropic organizations within the Chickasaw Nation.

Forest County Potawatomi Secretary James Crawford Participates in U.S. House Roundtable Discussion Focused on Economic Empowerment for Native Communities

FCPC Secretary James Crawford

By: Connor Cruz and Gabriel Terrell – Schreiber GR Group

On Thursday, April 7, 2022, the U.S. House Select Committee on Economic Disparity and Fairness in Growth held a roundtable discussion, "Economic Empowerment for Native Communities: Harnessing Innovation and Self-Governance to Unlock Economic Potential," to examine pathways for Native American communities to foster sustainable economic development and growth. Forest County Potawatomi Community (FCPC) Secretary James Crawford was one of the Native American leaders asked to participate in the roundtable.

U.S. House Select Committee members Congressman Bryan Steil, (WI – 01) and Congresswoman Gwen Moore (WI – 04) asked FCPC Secretary James Crawford to participate in the roundtable discussion.

Secretary Crawford, and other subject matter experts and tribal leaders, engaged in an important discussion with Select Committee Members from the U.S. House.

The group explored historical barriers to economic development and growth, highlighted examples of successful strategies, and discussed ways to cultivate sustainable economic development for Native American communities.

Secretary Crawford provided a brief background and history of the Forest County Potawatomi to the committee members and explained that while the Tribe's reservation land is in Forest County, they also operate many businesses in other areas of Wisconsin and the United States. The Forest County Potawatomi is not only involved in the gaming industry, but they have also expanded their interests to include a variety of non-gaming businesses.

Secretary Crawford brought forth two topics to the committee members to focus on that he believed would help address the collective desire for Native American communities to improve their economic situation.

First, he discussed issues regarding the competitive grant funding processes. Competitive grants are intended to fund important Indian Country programs, but there continue to be barriers to achieving uniformity with non-tribal governments and communities. He stated, "Despite the consistent concerns expressed by tribal governments regarding the effectiveness and fairness of the competitive grant funding processes, many important tribally-focused programs are only funded through such methods.

Secretary Crawford emphasized how the reality is that this funding method often puts tribes against other tribes in order to be given awards, resulting in negative consequences for overall tribal economies.

In addition, Secretary Crawford highlighted federal funding methods directly to tribes. He noted, "Just as is the case with competitive grant funding, nothing in this nation's treaty and trust responsibility identifies the need to run federal funds through state treasuries based on Native American demographics.

Secretary Crawford expressed the best solution to the problem could be to award federal dollars directly to tribal governments, just as the federal government does for states when it comes to their student populations and as the federal government did with the separate funding to tribes through the CARES ACT and then later through the American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA).

Ranking Member Steil also asked Secretary Crawford the best way Congress can help tribal communities economically. Secretary Crawford emphasized it was imperative for Congress to "support legislation that incentives growing businesses on tribal land." Additionally, he mentioned how tribes do not have the ability or the resources to create the infrastructure that is advantageous to attracting new business.

There is certainly a need to address a variety of issues to improve the overall economic status of tribal communities, and Secretary Crawford effectively brought forth two key issues to demonstrate ways to address this issue. This is a positive step forward in helping legislators enhance economic development and growth for the Potawatomi and other tribes.

Spirit Week: WOODLANDS STATE STREET KIDS, TEACHERS AND STAFF TAKE PART

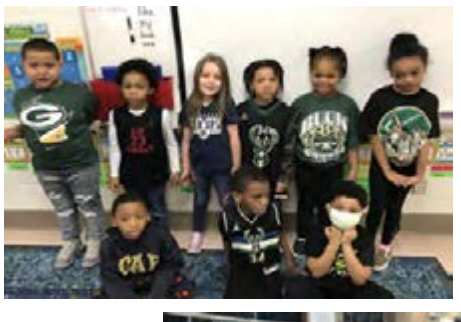

The students, teachers and staff of Woodlands State Street School located on the Wgema Campus showed their school spirit this past week by participating daily in Spirit Week. The 7th and 8th grade students chose each day's theme. The themes included dressing from the 80's and 90's decades, pajama day, dress as your favorite character day, wear your favorite sports apparel, and wearing school apparel or colors.

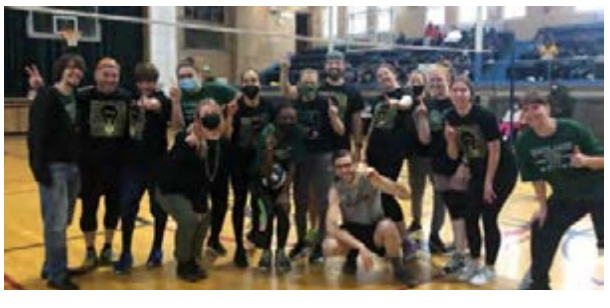

The week ended with a volleyball game between staff and the 8th graders, with the staff just narrowly winning. The week of fun and the big game at the end was the perfect way to send the kids off for a week of no school as the weekend started their spring break.

Ribbon-Cutting: GATEWAY LOFTS - KENOSHA

Land Quest hosted a ribbon-cutting and open house yesterday to mark the turnover for the first of five buildings that make up the Gateway Lofts project in Kenosha. The project is a culmination of a partnership with Gateway Technical College and the City of Kenosha to provide accessible housing for their students and local residents. We are honored to serve as the construction manager on this transformative project and would like to thank Land Quest and Ryan Douglas for selecting Greenfire as their trusted building partner. The project team includes Mike Smith, Senior Project Manager, Dave Kwiatkowski, Superintendent, and Mitchell Berti, Project Engineer. We are proud of their determination and dedication to this project and look forward to seeing the entire project turn over in June!
